A LARGE CLUB ORGANIZED

Second Ward Republicans Are Ready to Carry On an Aggressive Campaign.

Several Hundred Leading Citizens Enroll Their Names On the List of Active Workers-Various Phases of Local Politics.

The announcement that the citizens of the Second ward, of which General Harrison is a resident, would meet last night at the No. 9 engine-house, corner of Ash and Seventh streets, packed that building to its utmost and crowded the pavement on the outside. By many of the oldest citizens present it was said to be the most enthusiastic meeting ever held in the ward. The meeting was called to order by S. A. Lee, the temporary chairman, and A. S. Dailey and Chas. F. Wright were appointed temporary secretaries to enroll the names of members who from the start began to announce their purpose of doing active work in the campaign. Chas. F. Wright, Jno. S. Duncan and Henry Stevenson were appointed a committee on permanent organization, and as they retired from the room to decide upon the details of the evening's work, the crowd used the time in calling out various prominent men present for speeches.

P. A. Ward, a former Democrat and influential Irish voter, mounted the secretary's table, and, as the cheering subsided, said: "Gentlemen and fellow-Republicans, this is the first time since the disruption of the old Whig party that I have ever signified my determination to vote an anti-Democratic ticket. But to-night I state to you all that I intend to vote for Benjamin Harrison. I have my reasons, but I can't give them to you to-night They are good ones, and I hope I may have a chance this campaign to publish them. I can say that my reasons are not only influencing my mind, but they are influencing the element to which I belong."

Three ringing cheers were given for Mr. Ward, three more for Harrison, and after a vigorous expression of the opinion that "He's all right," Judge F. M. Finch was called out. Mounting the table, where all the time names were being added to the already long list of membership, he said: "I voted in 1836 for W. H. Harrison, I voted for him in 1840, and if he was alive to-day I would continue to vote for him. But wehave a man to-day who is as near to that grand old man man to-day who is as near to that grand old man as he can get, and I will vote for that man for our next President. He stands before the American people as a most perfect, the best equipped, and a most loyal statesman, and, above all, is a true friend to their home industries. When we can't rely upon the products of our own markets, then I say it is time for us to do without. My first vote was cast in 1832 for Henry Clay, who advanced this thought, and next November, if I live, I shall cast my vote for him who to-day is the most able to perpetuate it." to-day is the most able to perpetuate it."

Hon. Jno. M. Butler then took the stand and spoke as follows, being often interfered with by applause: "I came here to-night to help organize this meeting, not to address it. Judge Finch has been telling you about his first vote-mine was cast in 1856. The Republican platform that suited me then has suited me ever since. I have never seen fit to alter my vote on any occasion, and the same kind of a Democratic party that we met with then we meet with to-day. It could not be any worse. The present campaign is certainly a hopeful one for us. But there are one or two points of danger we must guard. We must not take it . for granted that the Democratic party in Indiana is asleep or without some sort of organization.

They are alive and claim unity. We must take them at their word and make their defeat all the harder to take. We are without doubt going to carry the State, but we must not be too confident. It means work; but good, honest work will roll up a majority that will surprise the country. The pension department of the United States government is run marely as a United States government is run merely as a political machine. Every morning paper now-adays publishes a list of pensions granted six inches long. I think it behooves every Republican to investigate this matter. G. A. R. men should examine them. The Democratic party has, for years been striving to bring about the state of years, been striving to bring about the state of affairs that now exists here in Indiana. We cannot earry this campaign by huzzas and campaign yells. We must get down to earnest, solid work. yells. We must get down to earnest, solid work. I have a great respect for parts of the Democratic party. The rank and file are on the right eide of a good many issues, but their leaders are so rotten in their party intrigues that truth never gets a hearing. We must consecrate everything to this summer's work. Do we want fine houses or hovels! Do we want to be paupers and depend on England for our support! Do we want our industries to become stagnant! Then all we have to do is to send Grover Cleveland back to the White House. Free-trade land back to the White House. Free-trade England will loudly applaud the act. The fact is I am inclined to call the Democratic party the British Democracy of America." The committee on organization had by this time completed its work and was ready to report, which it did as follows: President, Dr. W. P. Johnson; vice-presidents, Silas A. Lee, E. F. Norwood and C. C. Foster; secretary, Vinson Carter; treasurer, Hezekiah Dailey; executive committee, Hugh H. Hanna, C. S. Wright, August Bruner, A. I. Lyon and J. L. McMaster. It was decided to meet this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the New Danison to meet the Lincoln o'clock at the New Denison to meet the Lincoln Club from Cincinnati. Several hundred names rere signed to the membership roll, which includes General Harrison's as an honorary mem-ber. The list is as follows:

The meeting closed by all forming into line, preparatory to marching to General Harrison's residence. The line reached from Broadway to Ash street, and, headed by a fife and drum, they marched to Delaware street, and then south to the house, under command of Worth Wright. As they halted on the corner of Home avenue and Delaware street, General Harrison was addressing the railroad men, and at the close of his remarks the entire club formed a double file in front of his residence through which the Harrison and Morton Railway Club marched, headed by the When Band. The citizens of the Second ward are highly elated over their turn out and intend to make the ward of the next President give him a solid vote.

A Herculean Task. The Democrats were busy all day yesterday and up to a late hour last night working up their "spontaneous" meeting for to-night. The leaders were caucusing nearly the entire day. The slightest details are being arranged with scrupulous care, and vet all the work is being done in as stealthy and quiet a manner as it is possible to do it. A gentleman who knows says that committees have been making a personal canvass among all the members of the party, urging them to come out and start the campaign off in good style. It is even asserted that solicitors have gone to workingmen's houses at night and appealed to them to be in line. The South Side and lower wards of the city especially have been worked up in this way. An especial personal canvass has also been made among the railroad men. The attempt will be made thus early in the campaign to commit as many as possible, in the hope of holding them. So far, however, but small success has attended their work in that direction, so that the demonstration to night will contain, so far as railroad men are concerned, not half a dozen persons who have formerly acted with any but the Democratic party. An especial in-terest is also being taken in the affair by the employes of the court-house and postoffice, so that all of them may be expected to be in line. Notification has been served on leaders, high and low, that they must also come in and swell the ranks. Delegations in large numbers are also expected from adjoining towns. A traveling salesman for a house on Meridian street says that he saw at a town in the northern part of the State four cars already decorated for a crowd coming Saturday night to the meeting. Another drummer says that Clayton is being worked up, and still another that an effort is being made to get up a crowd in Greencastle to come over. On every road where the trains run conveniently word has been sent out for all Democrats to come to the city for the evening, at least, and try and boom the campaign. It is probable that so much work was never put on a meeting at so early a time in the campaign. "Why," remarked a well-known local politician, "if it works the Democracy as hard to get up its meetings during the whole campaign as it has this one, the party will have the vertigo before the thing is half over. You can depend on it that every Democrat who can by any manner of means, by persuasion, importunity or threat, be brought out, will be there." Republican Escort Club. The Republican Escort Club met in the Council chamber last night with a large and enthusiastic crowd of young Republicans. The following officers were elected: President, W. O. Mc-Kinney; vice-president, W. B. Allen; secretary, F. R. Knotts: treasurer, Frank Richards. The executive committee, in addition to the officers named, includes J. W. Dudley, Chas. Tarleton and W. E. Pellet. The plan of the organization is to raise the membership to 150 active, wide-awake young men, who are to be nicely uniformed and drilled. They will be divided into three divisions of fifty men each, with necessary officers and non-commissioned officers to each vision, so that the work may be distributed and the men available for duty without calling on the same division too often. The committee will begin at once canvassing for funds for uniforms, and hope to meet with the encouragement that a first-class organization should have at the capital city. There are seventy-five names on the roll, and the full quota will be made up by the next meeting, to be held in the City Council chamber at 8 o'clock next Friday evening. This club is proving a great attraction to the young Republicans of the city.

Congressional District Convention.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 13, 1888. The Republicans of the Seventh congressional district of Indiana are requested to meet in convention at Shelbyville, Aug. 1, 1888, at 1:30 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress. At the conclusion of said convention the Republicans of the legislasaid convention the Republicans of the legislative district, composed of the counties of Hancock, Marion and Shelby, will meet in joint convention for the purpose of nominating a candidate for joint Senator, and a candidate for joint Representative, to represent said district in the General Assembly of the State of Indiana. The basis of representation in all said conventions is one delegate for each 200 votes or fraction over one hundred votes cast for Lieutenant-governor k. S. Robertson in 1886. The number of delegates for each county upon said basis, is: Madison 14, Marion 68, Hancock 9, Shelby 14. The chairmen of Republican committees in each county are requested to call meetings for the appointment of said delegates. By order of the committee.

D. M. Ransdell, Chairman.

Attest: R. A. Black, Secretary.

The Boys Organizing.

The Harrison Hustlers, a club composed of South-side boys, was organized last night at No. 64 Fletcher avenue. Ed. A. Kingsley was elected captain, Chas. E. Worrel and Wm. C. Bryan lieutenants. The club will hold a meet-ing next Wednesday evening at the same place, and complete organization. All Republican boys between the ages of fifteen and twenty are invited to be present.

But Two Democrats Found. A canvass has been made of the political complexion of the heads of departments among all the railroads of the city. There are among all these officials but two Democrats, so it is said. W. A. Sullivan, freight agent of the Big Four, and George Brecount, freight agent of the Air line. The master mechanics, yard masters and foremen of warehouses are all Republicans.

A Club of First Voters. The First Voters' Harrison and Morton Club will meet Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the Superior Court room.

A Prospecting Party.

The Indianapolis, Decatur & Western Railway Company will run a special excursion, this morning, leaving the Union Depot at 7:30 o'clock, to which only a select circle of friends have been invited. As a special guest, Professor Sprannagel, of Prussia, here in the interest of a Portland coment-works, will be one of the party, and the purpose of the visit is to estimate the economic geology of the territory adjacent to the railway line.

Accident in a Gas Trench.

August Herdner, a married man with a large family, living at 278 East Georgia street, was injured yesterday morning by the caving in of a gas ditch on the corner of Tennessee and Morris streets. His left leg was broken below the knee. He was removed to his home in KregCULLINGS FROM THE COURTS.

A Decision in the Street-Railroad Case Expected on Monday. The decision of the full bench of the Supreme Court in the injunction suit brought against the city by the street-railroad company will not be handed down until City Attorney Taylor returns from New York. He is expected back this evening, but the decision will likely be withheld until Monday. It is being written by Judge Howe. The Dudley company announces that it will withhold its acceptance of the amended ordinance until the decision is given. In case the Citizens' company wins the suit the Dudley company will be left without an exclusive right to the streets incorporated in its Inhuman Treatment Charged. Sarah H. Wilson has petitioned the Superior Court for a divorce from her husband, George Wilson, and in her complaint charges that after they were married in 1876 they lived together happily until two years ago, when her husband began treating her in an inhuman manner. She alleges that since that time he has frequently threatened to take her life, and that for self-protection she abandoned him. She also asked for alimony, in such amount as the court may think she deserves.

Before the Mayor. There was an unusual number of cases on the Mayor's docket yesterday morning. Morris Murphy, of Fletcher avenue, who with a knife made a murderous assault on his wife and seriously out her, waived examination. His case was referred to the grand jury. He could not procure bail, and went to jail to await the meeting of the jury, three weeks from Monday. Ben Kersting, a saloon-keeper, pleaded guilty to violating the 11 o'clock law, and was fined $10 and costs.

Demand for a Large Sum. The Berkshire Life Insurance Company has brought suit in the Superior Court against the Capital City Planing-mill Company. A mortgage and demand for $15,000 are involved in the prosecution of the issue by the plaintiff.

Metion Overruled. In the case of W. R. McKeen vs. Henry S. Ives, before the United States Circuit Court, the motion to strike the transcript taken from the Vigo Circuit court from the file was over-

Charged with Grand Larceny. Maurice Brennan, a Hebrew, was yesterday arrested on the charge of grand larceny, and a warrant was also sworn out for Reuben Bean, of Bloomington. Last May they hired a horse and wagon of Jno. A. Fennell, 75 East Wabash street, and failed to return them. All attempts at discovering the whereabouts of either the property or the men failed until Mr. Fennell's attention was called to a case, pending in Bloomington, in which two men, representing themselves as the Williams brothers, were charged with holding a stolen team. Brennan was arrested here, and Bean will be brought here to

The Search Abandoned.

All efforts to capture the men who attempted to rob a train on the Big Four a month ago, near Cincinnati, and in doing so killed baggageman Ketcham, have been abandoned. The men who were arrested on suspicton have been re-leased from custody, having proven their inco-cence. It is believed that the would-be robbers were desperadoes from the hills of Kentucky, opposite the place where the robbery was attempted.

Early Closing Proposed.

It has been proposed by the coal dealers to close their offices at 3 o'clock on Saturday after-Meyers & Co., and W. A. Rhodes & Co., have made agreement to this effect, and others are expected to shortly wheel into line.

HAIR PINS.

There is no one article of woman's dress that serves so many useful purposes, relieves her from the embarrassment of so many emergencies, and aids her in the accomplishment of so many designs as a hairpin. With it she not only controls the waywardness of her flying tresses, but also fastens her gloves, buttons her shoes, opens her letters, cuts her magazines and papers, takes the corks out of bottles and the knots out of strings, secures the sashes of silk and lace which she ties on her chairs and sofas, and fastens her bonnet in place. We have the goods in many kinds.
